The beauty of a life well lived never dies
It continues to embrace and inspire us

When I leave

My last breath does not say 'goodbye', for my love for all of you is truly timeless

I leave myself not to the undertaker and the grave but to your memory, with love

I leave my thoughts, my laughter, my dreams to you all whom I have treasured

I give you what not thief can steal: the memories of our time together, the tender love-filled memories of the successes we have shared, the hard times that brought us closer together and the roads we have walked side by side

I also leave all of you a solemn promise that, after I am home in Heaven, my heart and love will still be with you

My spirit will be drawn to you by the magnet of our love

Whenever you are in need, call me: I will come to you with my arms full of wisdom and light to help you

I take with me the love and the millions of memories we shared

So fear not — not at all — at my leaving you whom I have loved so much, for we are forever intertwined

A ship sails and I stand watching till it fades on the horizon and someone at my side says:
“They are gone”

Gone where?
Gone from sight, that is all,
they are just as large as when I saw them

The diminished size and total loss of sight is in me not in them and just as the moment when someone at my side says:
“They are gone”

There are others who are watching them coming and other voices take up a glad shout: “Here they come”
and that is dying

Ní imithe uainn atá siad ach imithe romhainn

They are not gone from us but gone before us
